1 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Woodside’s commitment

The Woodside Petroleum Ltd Board of Directors is committed to fostering a culture of corporate compliance, ethical behaviour and good corporate governance. This reflects our Compass Values of Integrity and Working Together, in particular. Woodside will protect those who report any breach of law or any violation of Woodside’s policies, principles or values or any other legal or ethical concern, including by protecting their identity and protecting them from detrimental treatment.

This policy documents Woodside’s commitment to maintaining an open working environment in which Woodside people (as defined below) are able to report instances of unethical, unlawful or undesirable conduct without fear of intimidation or reprisal.

Unethical, unlawful or undesirable conduct is referred to in this policy as unacceptable conduct. Examples of unacceptable conduct are given in Section 2.3 below.

References in this policy to Woodside include references to Woodside Petroleum Ltd, and all its subsidiaries.

2 ABOUT THIS POLICY

2.1 Purpose of this policy

The purpose of this policy is to:

- help detect and address unacceptable conduct;
- help provide employees and contractors with a supportive working environment in which they feel able to raise issues of legitimate concern to them and to Woodside;
- provide information about the protections available to people who report unacceptable conduct;
- provide information about to whom reports of unacceptable conduct may be made, how they may be made, and how Woodside will investigate them where appropriate; and
- help support and protect people who report unacceptable conduct.
2.2 Who is covered by this policy?

This policy applies to reports of unacceptable conduct which are made by current or past:

- Woodside directors, officers and employees;
- Woodside contractors and suppliers;
- employees of Woodside contractors and suppliers;
- associates\(^1\) of Woodside, for example, a director or secretary of a related company of Woodside.

It also applies to reports of unacceptable conduct which are made by any relatives, dependants or spouses (or that spouse’s dependants) of individuals listed above.

In this policy each person in the categories listed above is referred to as a Woodside person (and collectively Woodside people).

2.3 Conduct covered by this policy

Unacceptable conduct covered by this policy includes any conduct which:

- is dishonest, fraudulent or corrupt;
- is illegal, such as theft, drug sale or use, violence, harassment or intimidation, criminal damage to property or other breaches of state or federal law;
- is unethical, such as dishonestly altering company records or data, adopting questionable accounting practices or wilfully breaching Woodside’s Code of Conduct;
- is potentially damaging to Woodside or a Woodside person, such as unsafe work practices or substantial wasting of company resources;
- may cause financial loss to Woodside, damage its reputation or otherwise be detrimental to Woodside’s interests;
- relates to potential misconduct or an improper state of affairs or circumstances in relation to Woodside’s tax affairs; or
- involves any other kind of misconduct or an improper state of affairs or circumstances in relation to Woodside.

2.4 Availability of this policy

This policy is made available on Woodside’s intranet website to Woodside employees, officers and other parties having such access. It is also made available on the Woodside internet website.

3 REPORTING UNACCEPTABLE CONDUCT

3.1 Who to report to under this policy

A Woodside person can make a report of unacceptable conduct under this policy to Woodside’s:

- Manager Business Integrity;
- head of Security & Emergency Management function;
- head of People & Global Capability function, or a business partner in this function;
- head of Internal Audit function;
- General Counsel or another Woodside in-house lawyer;
- Chief Executive Officer; or
- external Helpline provider, the STOPline (further details below), (Recipients).

\(^1\) As defined in the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth).
Under the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth), officers, senior managers, auditors and actuaries of Woodside are also eligible recipients of reports. Where a report is made to one of these persons not included in the above list, they will be considered a ‘Recipient’ for the purposes of this policy.

Woodside recognises that there may be issues of such sensitivity that a Woodside person does not feel able to make a report of unacceptable conduct to an internal Recipient. Alternatively, there may be occasions where a Woodside person does not feel the concern they have raised has been adequately addressed, or where they feel an internal Recipient may not be impartial. In these cases, Woodside’s Helpline is available.

The Helpline is operated by The STOPline. Any Woodside person may use the Helpline to report, or receive guidance in respect of reporting, suspected unacceptable conduct under this policy. Contact details for the Helpline are set out in Section 6.3 below. Reports to the Helpline may be made anonymously.

3.2 What happens when I contact the Helpline?

Where a Woodside person contacts the Helpline to report suspected unacceptable conduct, they will have the option of either identifying themselves or remaining anonymous. They may either:

- identify themselves to the Helpline and consent to their identity being disclosed to Woodside;
- identify themselves only to the Helpline but not to Woodside; or
- choose to remain anonymous to both the Helpline and Woodside.

The Helpline operator will make a record of all of the relevant information provided by the Woodside person. As with named reporting, to allow Woodside to investigate the issue it is important that anonymous reports include sufficient information in relation to the alleged unacceptable conduct.

The Helpline will refer the matter, along with the information provided by the Woodside person, to Woodside’s Chief Executive Officer and/or his/her delegate who will determine whether it is appropriate to commence an investigation, which will be conducted in accordance with the confidentiality requirements and protections set out below.

4 INVESTIGATING REPORTS OF UNACCEPTABLE CONDUCT

4.1 Who investigates a report?

All reports of suspected unacceptable conduct made to a Recipient (including received from the Helpline) will be recorded in the Woodside Investigations Case Management System.

An appropriate investigator (or investigators) will be appointed to assess and investigate the report. An investigator will likely be one of the following people or their delegates:

- the Manager Business Integrity;
- the General Counsel;
- the head of the People & Global Capability function;
- the head of the Internal Audit function; or
- another Business Unit or functional head.

A person will only be asked to investigate a matter if they can do so in an impartial manner. For example, a head of function will not be asked to investigate any matter which relates to their own function.

In certain circumstances (for example where the report involves allegations of fraud) the Chief Executive Officer or his/her delegate may decide to appoint external investigators.
Where a report of suspected unacceptable conduct relates to a significant matter involving the Chief Executive Officer or a senior executive that reports directly to the Chief Executive Officer, the matter will be referred directly to the Chair of the Board Audit & Risk Committee.

4.2 How is an investigation carried out?

The person appointed to investigate the report will be required to follow normal Woodside procedures for handling a complaint or disciplinary issue. This would generally involve:

- undertaking a fair, independent and discreet investigation into the substance of the report to determine whether there is evidence to support the matters raised;
- respecting individual confidentiality and protecting the identity of the reporter (see Section 5 for further information);
- collecting all available data and verifying the reported information;
- in order to observe the rules of procedural fairness, interviewing any relevant person to understand their perspective;
- proceeding with due care and appropriate speed; and
- consulting or informing employee representative bodies as required.

Whenever a report of suspected unacceptable conduct mentions or relates to any Woodside employees, Woodside is committed to treating those employees fairly, as appropriate in the circumstances, including by following the processes set out above.

4.3 What happens after an investigation?

At the end of the investigation, the investigator(s) will report their findings to the Chief Executive Officer. The investigation findings will be reviewed, independently of the investigator(s), to determine an appropriate response, which may include rectifying any unacceptable conduct and taking any action required to prevent any future occurrences of the same or similar conduct.

The identity of the Woodside person who reported the unacceptable conduct will be redacted from any written investigation reports unless they have consented to disclosure of their identity.

Where issues of discipline arise, the disciplinary process will also be in line with Woodside’s procedures for disciplinary matters. Where allegations of unacceptable conduct made against a person cannot be substantiated, that person will be advised accordingly and will be entitled to continue in their role as if the allegations had not been made.

4.4 What if I have been involved?

A person who has committed or been involved in unacceptable conduct will not be immune from disciplinary action merely because they have reported the unacceptable conduct in accordance with this policy. However, the person’s conduct in making the report is likely to be taken into account in determining what disciplinary action is appropriate.

4.5 Will I be kept informed?

Once the matter is finalised, a verbal report will be made to the Woodside person who disclosed the matter. This report will explain the findings and actions taken to the fullest extent possible within commercial, legal and confidentiality constraints. Where the Woodside person who initiated the matter chooses to remain anonymous, alternative arrangements may be made for providing a verbal report of the outcome of the investigation to that person, where possible.
5 PROTECTING PERSONS WHO REPORT UNACCEPTABLE CONDUCT

5.1 Will my identity be treated confidentially?
If a Woodside person makes a report of unacceptable conduct under this policy, Woodside will take steps to ensure that person’s identity is protected from disclosure.

A Woodside person who intends to make a report under this policy may make a request via the Helpline for special protection measures if their identity is likely to be readily inferred from the nature of the information in the report.

Recipients or any other person with knowledge of the report must not disclose the Woodside person’s identity (e.g. name, staff ID or email address) unless:

- the Woodside person making the report consents to the disclosure;
- the disclosure is required by law;
- the disclosure is made to the Australian Securities and Investments Commission, the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority or the Australian Federal Police; or
- it is disclosed to a lawyer for the purpose of receiving advice in relation to legal obligations of protection and confidentiality.

Recipients may only disclose information that may lead to identification of the Woodside person who has made a report (such as their role and responsibilities, if these are unique) where it is reasonably necessary for Woodside to investigate a report and reasonable steps are taken to reduce the risk that the person's identity is disclosed.

Woodside will ensure that any records relating to a report of unacceptable conduct are stored securely and confidentially and are able to be accessed only by Woodside staff who are authorised to access the information for the purposes of assessing or investigating the report.

Unauthorised disclosure of:

- the identity of a Woodside person who has made a report of unacceptable conduct; or
- information from which the identity of the reporting person could be inferred, may be an offence under Australian law, will be regarded as a disciplinary matter and will be dealt with in accordance with Woodside's disciplinary procedures.

5.2 Will I be protected if I make a report?

Woodside is committed to protecting and respecting the rights of any Woodside person who reports unacceptable conduct in accordance with this policy.

Woodside will not tolerate any reprisals (including dismissal or demotion), discrimination, bias, harassment, intimidation or victimisation against any person suspected of making a report of unacceptable conduct, or against that person's colleagues, employer (if a contractor), relatives, or any other person where the reason for the detrimental conduct relates to the suspicion that a person has made a report of unacceptable conduct.

Any such retaliatory action may be an offence under Australian law, will be treated as serious misconduct and will be dealt with in accordance with Woodside's disciplinary procedures. A person who believes that they have suffered retaliatory action as a result, is encouraged to report the circumstances through the avenues set out in Section 3.1 above.

In addition to the above, under Australian law a Woodside person who has reasonable grounds for suspecting that unacceptable conduct has taken place, and who reports the matter to a Recipient, may be entitled to additional legal protections in certain circumstances, including:
• they may be protected from civil, criminal or administrative legal action for making the report;
• they may be protected from contractual or other remedies being sought against them on the basis of the report;
• the information they provide may not be admissible in evidence against them in legal proceedings (unless they have provided false information); and
• if they are subject to retaliatory conduct for reporting, in some circumstances they may be entitled to compensation or another remedy.

Under Australian law, these protections may not apply to reports made to Recipients that concern a personal work-related grievance of the person making the report.

5.3 Can I make a report anonymously?
As set out above, anonymous reports of unacceptable conduct can be made to the Helpline.

5.4 Protecting privacy
To the extent that any of the information recorded by the Helpline on Woodside’s behalf constitutes “personal information” about the caller under applicable privacy law, it should be noted that:

• the purpose of the collection of that information is to assist the Helpline and Woodside to respond to issues raised by the caller and to protect or enforce Woodside’s legal rights or interests or to defend any claims;
• personal information may be used for the primary purpose for which it was collected or for any related secondary purpose that could reasonably be expected; and
• personal information may be disclosed as described under Section 5.1 above.

Woodside only collects, uses or discloses personal information, including sensitive information, as allowed by law. Further details are available in Woodside’s Privacy Procedure.

6 POLICY REVIEW, TRAINING AND CONTACT DETAILS

6.1 Review of this policy
Woodside will regularly monitor and review the effectiveness of the protections described in this policy.

6.2 Training
Employees, Recipients, potential investigators and all relevant Woodside personnel will receive regular training in relation to their rights and obligations under this policy and under applicable whistleblower laws.
